VI Form

Prayer

Breath of Life, soften the hearts of your people. Teach us to love fully and radically, all of your children as their whole selves. As you have sent us your advocate in the Holy Spirit, help us learn what it looks like to be advocates for all people, regardless of difference, hear our prayer

Amen

It can be difficult to write about how other people feel about things that directly affect them. Fortunately for me, Dr. Ranj said it much better than I ever could:

“People are at their best when they can be exactly who they are, and feel confident that they are heard and supported. Everyone deserves to have a chance at being their best selves, and school is the perfect environment to nurture individuals no matter who they are or what they want to be.”

It is our responsibility as Christians to speak out against injustice of any kind. Any form of discrimination against others based on sexuality or gender is totally against the Respect we should always show each other.

What's your vision for a world after Coronavirus?

UCL openDemocracy are running an exciting competition open to VI Form students, asking you to share your vision of the future, with the chance to win book tokens but probably more importantly, an opportunity to be mentored by some of the worlds

Digital textile designs

This week Miss Cook wanted to draw some attention to work from Lizzie and Faye who had produced some excellent Digital Textiles designs and manipulations as part of their work this week. Miss Cook was most impressed.

It has been great being able to welcome many of you back into college over the past two weeks. Your teachers have passed on lots of fantastic comments about how positive you have been, not just in college but from home too. I have also heard the phrase 'I never thought I would say this, but I really miss school' on more than one occasion! So whilst that is nice to hear (and I will remind you throughout next year!), it's also important for you to remember that college is still here, all the time, remember our community is much more than a building. So continue to stay in touch with your teachers and friends as we approach the end of term.

In terms of Higher Education, most of you are now registered for UCAS and the next stage is writing your personal statements. These will take many, many drafts, but it is much easier for us once you have started! See what you can get done on unifrog before the end of term, and use the ABC model from Mr Parke's presentation. Congratulations to those of you who got through your Oxbridge conference this week. I'm really looking forward to reading the feedback to see how you got on.

Have a good weekend, take a break and see you soon.
